MINDBODY Honored with 2016 Glassdoor Employee Choice Award

Software company ranked 14 out of the top 50 best places to work in 2016

MINDBODY, the leading provider of cloud-based business management software for the wellness services industry, has been honored with a Glassdoor Employees' Choice Award, recognizing the Best Places to Work in 2016. MINDBODY is ranked 14 in the top 50 places to work amongst companies with 1,000 employees or more. The Employees' Choice Awards program, now in its eighth year, relies solely on the input of employees, who elect to provide feedback on their jobs, work environments and companies via Glassdoor.

"We're honored that our team has given us a Best Places to Work ranking on Glassdoor once again," said Rick Stollmeyer, MINDBODY's Co-founder and CEO. "Our inclusion on this list reflects the strength and impact of our core values, which serve as the foundation for all that we do here. These values cultivate an environment that attracts and retains the best and brightest talent to our team, and then gives them an environment where they can flourish. It's incredibly exciting to hear this positive feedback from our team members."

In the Glassdoor reviews, MINDBODY employees recognized the following as key among the company's strengths: fostering career growth, encouraging healthy lifestyles, maintaining a caring environment and promoting a work-life balance. In addition, 83% of reviewers stated that they would recommend MINDBODY to a friend and 98% stated that they approve of MINDBODY's CEO.

MINDBODY's core values were designed to shape a company culture that helps employees live meaningful, purpose-driven lives. Professional growth is supported alongside personal and emotional growth. Employees receive wellness vouchers to use with local wellness providers, onsite fitness classes, massage therapy and acupuncture; fresh produce deliveries; tobacco cessation programs; career counseling and professional growth workshops; recess activities; flu shots and fruit infused water. MINDBODY Evolve, the company's 3-month rotational wellness challenge, provides participating employees with membership to a local gym, small group personal training, 1-on-1 nutrition counseling, biometric screenings, body measurements, a fitness activity tracker, and the opportunity to forge new bonds with other team members.
